About the Institute:

Sardar Swarn Singh National Institute of Bio-Energy (SSS-NIBE) is an Autonomous Institute of the Ministry of New and Renewable Energy (MNRE), Govt. of India. The Institute is a R&D Institute with its mandate to focus on Bio-energy and develop innovative technologies in the area of renewables and biofuels. The vision of the Institute is to carry out state-of-the-art R&D covering the entire spectrum of bioenergy leading to commercialization and their integration with other renewable energy technologies. One of the important roles envisaged for the institute is human resource development at all levels in the field of Bio energy. R&D activities have already been initiated in the area of Biomass and Energy Management, Thermochemical Conversion, Biochemical Conversion, Chemical Conversion, and Electrochemical Processes etc.

Scope:

Energy security and environment are the primary and important issues in front of all countries. The exhaustive use of fossil-fuel sources has raised the serious concerns worldwide not only about energy security but also for negative impact on environment. Now there is a need to shift the current energy spectrum to green energy by creating the advance technologies to utilize the renewable resources (agro-forestry biomass) appropriately for bioenergy production to keep the pace with the growing demand of energy for sustainable development. The research activities in the area of bio-energy including biodiesel, bioethanol, biomethanation, fuel cell, biomass derived electrodes for energy generation, biomass gasification, and biomass cookstove, etc. are gained unprecedented attention over a worldwide due to their potential in finding replacement of fossil fuels. Agricultural biomass is an abundant renewable resource, which can be converted not only into liquid biofuels but also attracting the R&Ds to create alternative biofuels as potential substitute to fossil fuels. This natural biomass consists of highly complex polymer called lignocelluloses. Key barriers in the production of biofuels from biomass are the processes that release valuable sugars entrapped in lignocelluloses and advanced conversion technologies that utilize all the components of lignocelluloses. Two International and three National Conferences on 'Recent Advances in Bio-energy Research' have been organized at the Institute since 2011; these covered government policies, field experiences, and R&D efforts in the development and promotion of bio-energy in India. As part of our efforts to extend the scope of these conferences to cover global scenarios, the third "International Conference on Recent Advances in Bio-energy Research-2022" (ICRABR-2022) will be virtually organized during March 09- 11, 2022.
